scar Wilde's Plays at the Grand Opera and in Harlem.

Miss Pauline Hall and her company took possession of Harrigan's Theatre took possession of Harrigan's Theatre-last night and revived Offenbach's charming comic opera "The Princess of Trebizonde." Miss Hall appeared as Frince Raphael, and Richard Golden as Cabriola, the showman. Fred Solomon was Tremolini, and Josephine Knapp the showman's daughter. The opera was nicely produced. It will be reviewed in to-morrow's "Evening World."

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE. GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.

The brilliantly talky play, "Lady Windemere's Fan," by Oscar Wilde, was revived last night at the Grand Opera-House. It is not the sort of play with which the patrons of the big west side playhouse are familiar, but they seemed to like it, for it is not lacking in dramatic effect. In the cast were Miss Virginia Harned, Miss Evelyn Campbell, Mrs. E. J. Phillips, Frank Gilmore, E. S. Abeles, Howard Hansel and Herbert Ayling.

HARLEM OPERA-HOUSE

Oscar Wilde has invaded New York this week, with "Lady Windermere" at the Grand, and "A Woman of No Importance" at the Harlem Opera-House, Miss Coghlan presented the latter play last night in Harlem in the same conscientious manner as at the Fifth Avenue Theatre. John T. Suillvan played the part of Lord Illingworth. Other roles were interpreted by Effic Shannon, Ada Dyas, Mrs. Louise Thorndyke-Boucleault and Grant Stewart.

FOURTEENTH STREET THEATRE "A Man Among Men," W. C. Hudson's melodrama, that was reviewed in these columns last week, when it was produced at the Columbus Theatre, was the attraction last night at the Fourteenth Street Theatre. It was most pictursequely staged. The company includes such well-known people as Alice Fischer, William Harcourt, Amelia Bingham, Theodore Babcock, Ernest Elton, Harry Meredith and others.

ABBEY'S THEATRE ABBEY'S THEATRE.

Henry Irving began the last week of his phenomenally successful New York engagement at Abbey's Theatre last night, when he produced "The Merchant of Venice." Mr. Irving's Shylock is one of his best characters, and he did it full justice, while the Portia of Miss Ellen Terry was charming in every respect. There was, as usual, a crowded house. To-night "Becket" will be played for the last time.

STAR THEATRE.

STAR THEATRE.

William H. Crane revived Brander Matthews and George H. Jessop's play.

"On Probation," at the Star Theatre last night, and was very warmly received. Mr. Crane was in an excellent humor, and he got many laughs by his quaint work as Jonathan Silsbee, the very susceptible Chicagoan. Mr. Backus was the very terrible Brazilian, Miss O'Neill, his wife, and Mrs. Herbert, the spurious Count de Chanti.

COLUMBUS THEATRE. "Yon Yonson" was the play at the Columbus Theatre in Hariem last night. It was very effectively staged, and the log jam scene was much appianded. The role of the Scanlinavian hero was played by Gus Heege with much humor. Miss Sadle Connolly was the stout and amusing Irish woman. Miss Merri Osborne and Miss Victory Bateman were also in the cast. There was a large audience.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.

Miss Jennie Yeamans was the star at the People's Theatre last night, and the play was "Jane," to which Miss Yeamans has given a new impetus by set bright and exceedingly amusing work. There was not a dull moment while Miss Yeamans was on the stage. The company included Adolph Jackson, Joseph Allen, Alfred Fisher, Schnitz Edwards, Miss Maggie Holloway Fisher and others.

H. B. LACORS, THEATRE H. R. JACOBS' THEATRE.

H. R. JACOBS' THEATRE.

"My Jack," Benjamin Landeck's very sensational melodrama, was the attraction at H. R. Jacobs' Theatre yesterday, it was interpreted by Walter Sanford's companies, or rather by one of Walter Sanford's several organizations. The sudlence grew very enthusiastic over the realistic shipwreck scene, in which poor buffeted Jack is saved by lovely, confiding Dorothy, the heroine. The audience thoroughly sympathized with Dorothy.

AMERICAN THEATRE. AMERICAN THEATRE.

The American Theatre seems to be a success as a combination house. Last week J. K. Emmet did very weil there, and last night there was a large audience to see "The Land of the Midnight Sun," a play adapted from Hall Caine's novel, "The Bondman." The splendid scenery was capitally displayed on the handsome stage of the American. The company, headed by Elmer Grandin, was a good one.

Pauline Hall in "The Princess of Trebizonde."

sic Hall, last night, was a very good one. Among those who appeared were Josie Sabel, who sang in French and English; Mone, and Mme. Del-Mely, French duettists; the Schrode brothers, four very clever acrobats; Russell, O'Dell and Russell, John W. Myers, Joe Flynn, Belle Black, Kellar, Kaye and Henry, Fred Paulo, Delavoye and Fritz, and Burnaby and Risk.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.

"Erminie," as presented by Francis Wilson and his company, still retains its hold on the affections of theatre-goers, and last night the Columbia Theatre was thronged. Mr. Wilson was ably supported by William Broderick, Luiu Glaser, Jennie Weathersby. Harold Blake and others. "Lady Windermere's Fan" will be presented next week.

STAR THEATRE.

At the Star Theatre last night a good sized audience was kept in a laughing mood by the antics of John Kernell and other funmakers who presented "The Hustler." The many specialties that were introduced formed attractive features of the entertainment and were heartly encored.

BIJOU THEATRE.

May Newman (Mrs. H. C. Kennedy) resumed her old role of Liza in Bartiey Campbell's "The White Slave" at the Bijou Theatre last night. Miss Newman's work was conscientious throughout and she received several curtain calls. Plantation melodies were sung by the jubilee singers and the play was given an excellent setting.

"THE AMPHION.

"The Girl I Let's Behind Me" was seen at the Amphion again last night. Good work was done by Frank Mordaunt and the other members of the cast, who will continue with the organization when the play goes to New York. "Blue Jeans" is underlined for next week.

EMPIRE THEATRE.

EMPIRE THEATRE.

"Killarney" was taken across the city and produced at the Empire Theatre last night. Katie Emmett in the leading role did good work. The songs, dances and other specialties were pleasing.

GAYETY THEATRE.

The bill at the Gayety Theatre last night included Maggie Cline, Murphy and Kursale, Filson and Errol, the Nelson sisters, Sherman and Morrisey, Lillie Western, Daly and Devere, A. O. Dun-can and Charles Durey.

NOVELTY THEATRE.

"The Galley Slave" was seen at the Novelty Theatre last night. The play was presented with new scenery, and the company was fair.

TONY PASTOR'S.

That "lydy who's seen better days," otherwise Miss Bessie Bellwood, sang her plaintive songs at Tony Pastor's Theatre last night, and was very well received. Tony Pastor was on the programme and so were Lottle Glison, Maud Huta, Ejlly S. Clifford, Isabella Carlini, the Big Four, the little Booths, Miss Katharine Gyles, the club juggler; Edward Lorrett, the shoe dancer, and Miss Louise Lorrett.

EDEN MUSEE.

Miss Eurice Vance, a very blithe young woman, who has appeared in "A Woman's Revenge" and "A Trip to Chinatown," sang last night at the Eden Musee, where she made a hit. She is clever, vivacious and magnetic. Other features of the stage performance were Miss Ruth Hamilton's soprano songs, Frank Majilton's entertaining jugglery, and Lola Yberri's pretty and artistic dances

HERRMANN'S THEATRE.

The continuous performance at Herrmann's Theatre prospers, and slices of New Jersey real estate are still served to all purchasers of reserved seats. Among the artists who appeared yesterday were little Miss Bijou Mignon, whose songs and dances were very enjoyable: Miss Pauline Gladden Chapman, a cornettist; Dan Mason, a Dutch comedian; Lamothe and Duncan, Allan May and William De Boe.

HUBER'S MUSEUM.

Two vaudeville companies furnished the patrons of Huber's Museum with fun yesterday. The organizations included Miss Bertha Brush, Donovan and Donovan, the Weston sisters, Mamie Flower, Lavender and Thompson and Tony Hart, jr. In the curio halis were Oura's Imperial acrobats, Prof. Ricardo with his troupe of performing leopards, Balbroma, Running Elk and Wanna.

DORIS'S MUSEUM. DORIS'S MUSEUM.

There was a curious contest at Doris's Eighth Avenue Museum yesterday. Ten rather comely girls from Kilkenny made butter for prizes, which will be distributed Saturday night. The one who produces the most will, of course, be the lucky winner. The butter will be distributed among the lady visitors. In the theatorium a play called "The Union Spy" was presented, and there was a vaudeville performance given by Kamochie's Orientals.

Champion Corbett is in Baltimore this week, and according to a despatch from that city he says he cannot fight Jackson in June, but will meet him sooner if the proposed match with Jackson, Corbett is quoted as saying: "Jackson is a big clever fellow, yet he is not as shifty as Mitchell or as dangerous as Sullivan. It is odds that I wil defeat him, as Jackson has certainly deteriorated while I have advanced. Again, he has but one style of fighting, and despite the fact that he has a marvellous reach and is much heavier than I aim, yet he is not so difficult a problem to solve as either Mitchell or Sullivan." Corbett wired from Haltimore to Philadelphia that he would appear in the latter city on March 22 in a benefit entertainment to be given under the auspices of the Citizens' Relief Committee. At a meeting of the Princeton Graduate Advisory Committee last Saturday, C. C. Cuyler was re-elected Chairman for a term of three years. He accepted the re-election with the understanding that he would resign June 1. The football treasurer's report showed that nearily $10,000 was cleared last season.

The first outdoor game of baseball of the season was played at Philadelphia yesterday between two nines, made up of the candidates for the University of Pennsylvania baseball team. Five innings were played, the 'Varsity team winning by a score of 7 to 5. The gate showed that the team will be all right in fielding and batting, but weak in the box.

Secretary Sullivan, of the A. A. U., announces that the date of the finals of the boxing and wrestling championships at Madison Square Garden has been changed to March 21. A good entry list has been promised and representatives will come from Washington, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, and possibly Buffalo. The local clubs are taking great interest in this meeting. The Pastimes, Clippers and Clintons will have their best men entered. It is believed that the gold souvenir that will be given to every man who weighs in and competes the preliminary night will have a tendency to increase the entry list materially.
